

1909. The Satang Surcharges.

By a decree of the Siamese Government it was stated that on and after August 15th, 1909, "Att stamps" would no longer be available for postage, while "Satang stamps" were not to come into use until that date. The line of demarcation between the two currencies, however was not so sharply drawn as the above would lead one to suppose, for the piece below shews them used side-by-side.
